SECNAV to Oversee Enemy Combatant Admin Review

The Department of Defense (DoD) announced June 23 Navy Secretary Gordon England has been named the Designated Civilian Official (DCO) to oversee the annual administrative review of the continued detention of enemy combatants at Naval Base Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

As the DCO, England will operate and oversee the review process to assess whether each detainee should be released, transferred or continue to be detained.

During the review, each detainee will have an opportunity to appear in person before a board of three military officers and provide factual data to support his release. The detainee will be provided a military officer to assist him. In addition, the board will accept written information from the family and national government of the detainee. Based on this information, as well as submissions by other U.S. government agencies, the board will make a recommendation to England, who will decide whether to release, transfer or continue to detain the individual.

England has assembled a joint civilian and military team that is developing a detailed process to expedite the review of detainee records and establish review boards in the near future. This process will provide an annual review of each enemy combatant and will assist DoD in fulfilling its commitment to help ensure no one is detained any longer than is warranted, and that no one is released who remains a threat.

Thrift Savings Plan Begins Toll-Free Service

A toll-free telephone service for Thrift Savings Plan participants and beneficiaries began July 1.

Callers can now receive TSP account or transaction information via the service daily, around the clock. They will also be able to speak to a participant service representative at one of two call centers between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m. Eastern time, Monday through Friday.

The retirement savings plan is for federal employees and similar to the 401(k) plans offered by many private employers. Participants include federal civilian employees in all branches of government, employees of the U.S. Postal Service, and members of the uniformed services.

For calls from the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, the primary toll-free number will be (877) 968-3778 and the TDD number for the hearing impaired will be (877) 847-4385. The current number (504) 255-8777 can be used for all other international calls.

DFAS Unveils Reserve/Guard Pay Center of Excellence

The Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) has officially opened the Reserve/Guard Pay Center of Excellence within its Cleveland-based DFAS Military and Civilian Pay Services operation, thus establishing one DFAS location that will furnish pay account support for Army, Air Force and Naval Reserve and Guard Component customers.

The center is designed to further improve the services DFAS provides to the men and women who defend America. Centralizing all Reserve and Guard pay expertise in one location greatly enhances the sharing of "best practices." This, in turn, will reap clear benefits in quality of service to DFAS' Reserve and Guard customers.

GTMO Anglers Allowed to Test Deep-Sea Fishing Skills

All those big tuna and sailfish-that-got-away stories we have all heard are soon to be a thing of the past. Beginning Saturday, July 10, GTMO fishermen who are interested in deep-sea fishing are permitted past the Southern Boundary of Guantanamo Bay, a half nautical mile (NM) inside the Western fence line to the lighthouse, and extending south, five NM from the Leeward shore line. Boat captains desiring to acquire the newly implemented deep-sea fishing "Tackle Box License" can apply Saturday at the MWR Marina.

The area of exclusion for fishing is called the Tackle Box and its exact eastern and western boundaries are clearly delineated in the newly added changes to NB 1710.10H Guantanamo Bay Outdoor Recreation and Wildlife Instruction.

"We are trying to take care of the community as best we can. Since 9-11, Southern boundary fishing had been placed off limits and now everything is new again. It will require that we take baby steps at first and learn and adjust to change," said Capt. Les McCoy, NAVBASE commander.

Some of the proposed changes to the instruction require boaters wishing to fish in the Tackle Box to file and travel in tandem float plans (two or more vessels), vessels will cross the Southern boundary together when transiting inbound or outbound and each vessel is required to check out with Port Control on channel 73 and check in with T-Box on channel 83.

Certain boat requirements need to be met in order to fish the Tackle Box. Boats must be factory built to handle open-ocean with a minimum 14-foot length and minimum

2-foot freeboard. An additional requirement of one sea anchor is also necessary. An onboard Global Positioning System is also highly recommended, but not required by the instruction.

Balance Your Checkbook: Good Habits Make Cents

Content Provided by LIFELines

Online banking and ATMs make accessing your money easy and convenient. However, electronic banking practices can be costly for your financial health. A forgotten trip to the ATM may leave you with an overdrawn checking account. An electronic error may not be discovered until your bank statement arrives.

Now, more than ever, it's important for service members and their families to manage their money carefully. One activity that you should make into a habit is balancing your checkbook. When you take the time to record and verify your financial transactions, you can save money and build good credit.

A Money Must

Paying attention is vital for your financial well-being. Semper Fit Financial Specialist Roy Ells emphasizes that "whether you're single or married, an officer or a private, the decisions you make about your personal finances will have an impact."

Knowing where your hard-earned dollars go is critical not only for your family's security but also for a successful career. Debt problems can hurt your chance of promotion if creditors contact your command. Being careful with your money is especially important during deployments, when record keeping is more difficult.

Check for Balance

With good records, balancing your checkbook is simple. All you need is your checkbook register, your bank statement, all receipts, a pencil, and a calculator.

Write down in your register everything that goes in and out of your checking account during the month, including deposits, checks, withdrawals, automatic payments, and transfers.

When your statement arrives, check the bank's record of each transaction against your register. Verify the date and the amount paid. Be sure to list any missed transactions or adjustments. Don't forget to take into account any transactions that haven't cleared yet.

Add up all of the withdrawals and all of the deposits for this month, then subtract the total withdrawals from the total deposits. The difference between this sum and your old balance is your new balance.

Compare your total with the bank's balance and reconcile any differences.

This Habit Pays Dividends

Balancing your checkbook can pay more than just satisfaction. Tracking your financial habits helps military families budget better. If you catch your bank in an error, you can save money. Good habits also build a solid credit record, which can translate into a better car or home loan. When you have control over your budget, you can pay your bills on time, avoid interest and underpayment fees, and steer clear of bounced checks. Last, when you balance your checkbook, you teach your children responsible budgeting skills.

A Happy 4th in GTMO!

Fireworks, food, fun and games - it was all there for the residents of GTMO to enjoy as MWR pulled out all the stops for another spectacular Fourth of July Celebration!

As part of the July 4th celebration, MWR, along with commercial sponsors, hosted many sporting events, including a fishing tournament, a golf tournament, a fun run and dodgeball and volleyball competitions. (Above) Although "Dodgeball" star Ben Stiller was not to be seen, a large crowd of spectators and participants turned out for 6-on-6 Dodgeball. Here, a member of team "Dangerous" takes aim at the Security team. Below: Bump, set, spike! Mark Leighton of the ROICC team prepares to return the volley, while a member of the USCG John Hall team gets set to spike.

Another important message from the Safety Office

Safety Training, Mishap Reporting Saves Lives

By Robert Warling, CIH, CSP
Naval Station Safety Office

Although GTMO was mishap free over the recent holiday weekend, we should never forget that safety training is essential. It is key to an organization's ability to be productive while remaining mishap-free. Quality presentations create and promote understanding. Lesson plans taught by instructors of knowledge and experience effectively convey important points and necessary information, which protects others.

We should not depend solely on one worker explaining safety topics, concepts and procedures to another, hoping the reluctant recipient retains the information well enough to explain it later to another person. Selecting that method of teaching safety is tantamount to playing Russian roulette, wondering if the round marked "to whom it may concern" has aligned itself with the barrel when it is your turn to squeeze the trigger.

Supervisors should provide monthly safety training. The reference for "sea lawyers" is OPNAV Instruction 5100.23F, Chapter 6, Appendix 6-A, Occupational Safety and Health Training Requirements. The training should relate to relevant topics. If your activity has not been conducting monthly safety training and has not submitted training rosters to the Safety Office, we must ask, "Why not?"

Mishap investigations typically conclude with a sentence stating: "a lack of safety training may have been a factor leading to this mishap with injury." Let us work together to bring our monthly safety training back on track. It is relatively easy and does not take much time or effort, and the topic selection is nearly endless. For assistance contact the Safety Office at extension 4526 or 4529. Schedule a mutually convenient time to meet and discover how little it requires to save a life and prevent injuries.

Are You Reporting Mishaps?

If not, why? Let us not forget OPNAV Instruction 5100.23F, specifically, Chapter 14, Mishap Investigation, Reporting, and Record-keeping. This chapter explains mishap-reporting requirements.

In short, naval base mishaps, especially any resulting in injury, must be reported to the Safety Office. There are no exceptions.

To ease the burden of generating an untested reporting format, the Safety Office created a standardized form accessible on-line. Supervisors (not the injured party) shall file this report. It is easy to fill-in and takes only a few minutes to complete.

Failing to comply with regulations carries a potentially harsh penalty. As Dirty Harry once said, "Do you feel lucky"? Notify the Safety Office at 4526 or 4529 of mishaps when they happen and not days later.

Supervisors and managers are advised that knowing of a mishap, but failing to report it raises concerns about reliability and leadership skills. Strive to prevent injuries, and always report mishaps as soon as possible.

Supervisory personnel are encouraged to copy this brief article and have their subordinates read it. Obtain signatures and the date each had the opportunity to read the article. Place it as a training document into your safety folder for continued use by new staff members and for future reviews. It is important to remember mishap-reporting is a search for what happened and when, not a report of "who did something wrong." The Safety Office defers the latter to Naval Criminal Investigative Service and the Judge Advocate General. Safety is about prevention, not prosecution. Be a conscientious leader. Apply safety training, effective communications and enforce operational procedures.

More Information

The Fleet and Family Support Center offers classes in financial management and budgeting. Call 4141 to find out when the next scheduled class is being offered.

Most major banks and credit unions provide online access to customers. Both the Navy Federal Credit Union and Marine Federal Credit Union allow members to access their accounts for up-to-date information. Financial software such as Intuit's Quicken and Microsoft Money makes balancing your checkbook quick and easy. Both programs offer helpful websites with financial tips and customer support.

A Word to the Wise

Balancing your checkbook just makes sense. This easy habit can save you money and enhance your career. The next time you use the ATM, just remember to keep your receipt.

Why Sports & Fitness for Youth?

By Karissa Sandstrom
MWR Fitness Specialist

Isn't it important to pass on your values and commitment to a healthy and fit lifestyle to your children?

Face it; it's a tough challenge! Made tougher by confusing schedules of parents working and school schedules. Add in video games, fast food, junk food and TV, and it's a challenge to raise active and fit kids!

We Americans love to think of ourselves as fit and full of energy, but the reality is that America has become a nation of couch potatoes, especially our youth. While children are becoming less active, food is becoming more available. Today there are more fast food restaurant chains, and they are offering larger and larger meals. It shows that our youth are eating more and are doing fewer activities, such as sports and fitness.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, "Physical inactivity has contributed to childhood obesity that is currently plaguing the United States." Just as for overweight adults, overweight children could result in cardiovascular disease, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, Type II Diabetes and many other heart risk factors.

When it comes down to it, family is a main focal point. Families should be very supportive of our youth getting involved in physical fitness activities and youth sports programs. Also, family should encourage their children to participate and lead a more healthy and active lifestyle. What habits our youth learn at early ages, will ultimately result in habits as they get older.

So get your children involved in the base-wide community youth programs and fitness activities! Not only will they get the benefit of living healthier lifestyles, but they will make some friends and have a lot of fun in the process!

Fun Fitness Activities for Kids

To keep kids moving, the American Council on Exercise suggests several fun fitness summer activities.

Soccer - To keep kids injury free, be sure they are geared up in appropriate protective equipment, such as shin guards. Soccer players should also wear shoes with cleats or ribbed soles to prevent slipping.

Martial arts - A great way to get kids involved in a sport that involves strength, coordination and mental discipline.

Bike riding - A fun activity for the whole family. Experts suggest children ride on sidewalks and paths until they are at least 10 years old, show good riding skills and are able to follow the rules of the road. Helmets, of course, are a necessity for both children and adults.

Swimming - The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends swimming lessons for children ages 4 and up, although classes are available for babies and toddlers as well.

Basketball - Whether it's a round of HORSE, a game of one on one, or a full-court competition, basketball is ideal for developing hand/eye coordination and teamwork.

Obstacle courses - Challenge kids to use a variety of different skills by setting up an obstacle course.

Dancing - Whether your kids like ballet or hip-hop, dancing encourages them to be creative and move their bodies freely.

Parents should encourage their children to warm up properly and stretch before each activity and teach them never to play through any type of pain or make winning the reason for playing any sport. Let them choose the activity and keep the focus on having fun.

Diving Tip - Per COMNAVBSSEGTMOINST 1710.10H, it's a NAVBASE requirement to utilize the "Buddy System."

What is a Buddy System? It's diving with another person, staying with your buddy while diving, letting someone else know where you plan to dive and when you plan to return. FMI on the Buddy System or other diving related issues, contact Reef Raiders Dive Club at 7315 or 5666, or Ocean Enterprises Dive Shop at 5336.
